Tuesday, May 19-p. m. To become Secretary of the Treasury is a wellsnown ambition of Thomas C. Platt. How woul! the financial community like to see Thomas C Platt running the finances of the Nation with a number of his ignorant political heelers assisting him? A pretty spectacle, indeed! How has Number of miles the presidency of Mr. Platt? How would the Nation's strongbox fare under the political ma-nipulations of Platt and his minions? Will 150 officers of financial institutions support a politireported yesterday that Mr. Platt and 150 officers of financial institutions would like to see a panic in order to bring about a change in Me Kinley sentiment, and that the opposition to McKinley was counting upon alarm in business circles to defeat him. The head of this reported movement would like to have a prominent Cabmovement would like to have a prominent Caninet position. It is the last chance of his life to reach a high political office, and there is not the least shadow of doubt about his willingness to sacrifice everything to his ambition. If McKinley becomes the next Prosident, Mr. Platt's political bark will set sail for Salt River, to remain stranded there forever; and herein lies his opposition to the Ohio man. This is why he is trying to get some support in Wall Street and why the Platt men are talking 'hopefully of a panic.' Mr. Platt and the Democratic and Mugwump papers which are helping him are making strenuous efforts to deceive the financial community about McKinley's money views, and perhaps they would welcome a panic as a means to an end. Well, the panic did not come to-day. The 150 officers of financial institutions did not announce themselves, and stocks did not "slump." Distorted and false views on the money question purporting to be the opinion of Mr. McKinley continue to be industriously circuiated in the Street by Mr. Platt and his Democratic friends, but the panic does not come, and the bank presidents have not enrolled themselves under the protection of that high-minded, patriotte and benevolent express company politician.

Dulness continued the chief feature in to-day's market, with a few more declines than advances. inet position. It is the last chance of his life to patriotic and benevolent express company pontician.

Duiness continued the chief feature in to-day's market, with a few more declines than advances. The market moves to suit traders who can live on profits squeezed out of fractional fluctuations, such as are recorded from day to day, but as an interesting subject to talk about and analyze, it furnishes poor opportunities. Politics are talked about more than stocks, so politics have to be written about by financial chroniclers. Sugar refining furnished over 54,000 shares out of a total in all stocks of 116,706 shares, losing nearly 2 per cent, while the rest of the industrial list, tobacco and rubber excepted, were weak and lower. London quotations were lower, but there were few arbitrage operations in the market, the international favorites, as well as the rest of the rallway list, being practically neglected. United States Rubber was strong in the morning on reports that the company would make a handsome showing in its report to be submitted later in the day at the annual meeting. Figures showing the company's operations in the last year are given elsewhere, and from them it will be observed that even if a dividend of 2½ per cent had been paid on the common stock in the year there would have been a surplus of upward of $200,000. The net surplus on April 1 was $410,014, against $876,217 last year, the decrease showing in $1,253,954 charged to depreciation account, or written off. The foreign exchange market was firmer to-day and it was reported that more gold would be shipped to Europe on Thursday. Although it was rumored that there were no more orders from Germany for gold it is learned that several orders still remain in the market and any advance in exchange rates will send more of the metal to Germany. Northern Pacific and Southern Raliway bonds were strong again to-day and very likely there will soon be some exchange in the market against sales of these securities in London by Mr. Morgan.
